

Modern Slavery and Human Trafficking Policy

Policy Statement

Modern slavery is a crime resulting in an abhorrent abuse of the human rights of vulnerable workers. It can take various forms, such as slavery, servitude, forced or compulsory labour and human trafficking. Arthian has a zero-tolerance approach to modern slavery and is committed to acting ethically and with integrity and transparency in all of its business dealings and relationships. We have committed to implementing and enforcing effective systems and controls to ensure that modern slavery and human trafficking are not taking place anywhere within either our own business or in any of our supply chains, consistent with its obligations under the Modern Slavery Act 2015. Arthian also expects the same high standards from all of our suppliers, contractors and other business partners and, as part of our contracting processes, it includes specific prohibitions against the use of modern slavery and expects that its suppliers will in turn hold their own suppliers to the same standards.

Identifying potential victims of modern slavery can be a challenge because the crime can manifest itself in many different ways. There is a spectrum of abuse, and it is not always clear at what point, for example, poor working practices and lack of health and safety awareness have become instances of human trafficking, slavery or forced labour in a work environment. In addition, some suppliers may go to great lengths to hide the fact that they are using slave labour. However, Arthian accepts that it has a responsibility through its due diligence processes to ensure that workers are not being exploited, that they are safe, and that relevant employment, health and safety and human rights laws and standards are being adhered to, including freedom of movement and communications.

This policy applies to all individuals working for Arthian or on Arthian's behalf in any capacity, including employees, directors, officers, agency workers, volunteers, agents, contractors, consultants, and business partners.

Responsibility for the Policy

The board of directors has overall responsibility for ensuring that this policy complies with Arthian's legal and ethical obligations.

The Managing Director has day-to-day responsibility for implementing this policy, monitoring its use and effectiveness, and auditing internal control systems and policies and procedures to ensure they are effective in preventing or remediating the risk of modern slavery. They are also responsible for investigating allegations of modern slavery in Arthian's business or supply chains.

Line managers are responsible for ensuring that those reporting to them understand and comply with this policy.

Compliance

The prevention, detection and reporting of modern slavery in any part of Arthian's business or supply chains, whether in the UK or abroad, is the responsibility of all those working for Arthian or under Arthian's control. Staff are required to avoid any activity that might lead to a breach of this policy.

In the event of a breach of, or conflict with this policy, staff must notify their line manager or Managing Director. Staff are encouraged to raise concerns about any issue or suspicion of modern slavery in any part of Arthian's business or supply chains as soon as possible. If staff are unsure about whether a particular act, the treatment of workers or their working conditions within any of the Arthian's supply chains constitutes any of the various forms of modern slavery, they should raise it with their line manager or Managing Director.

Arthian aims to encourage openness and will support anyone who raises genuine concerns in good faith under this policy, even if they turn out to be mistaken. Arthian is committed to ensuring no one suffers any detrimental treatment or victimisation as a result of reporting in good faith their suspicion that modern slavery is or may be taking place in any part of its business or in any of its supply chains.

Training and Communication

Regular training on this policy, and on the risk that the business faces from modern slavery in its supply chains, will be provided to staff as necessary, so that they know how to identify exploitation and modern slavery and how to report suspected cases.

If you suspect modern slavery, report it to your line manager, a member of the senior management team, you can also report it to the governments Modern Slavery Helpline on 08000 121 700 or the police on 101.

Arthian's zero tolerance approach to modern slavery will be communicated to all suppliers, contractors and other business partners when entering into new or renewed contracts with them.

Breach of the Policy

Any employee who breaches this policy will face disciplinary action, up to and including summary dismissal for gross misconduct.

Arthian may terminate its commercial relationship with suppliers, contractors, and other business partners if they breach this policy and/or are found to have been involved in modern slavery.
